	There is a course monitoring committee which monitors the class work and evaluates the performance of students and faculty. To ensure better interaction with the students and to varied activities of the administration, different committers were formed by the Institution. A few staff members and identified students are members in the committees. Each committee addresses the issue first by having threadbare discussions among themselves and come to a solution. This is then put to the administration/management for decision making. This method ensures better analysis of a situation and thus reduces the workload on the administration
